“I attended antiracism training which Rhonda Hill and her colleagues led for the Episcopal Diocese of Milwaukee clergy. I appreciated their alertness to context, and rich use of case studies which deepened our engagement. They paid careful attention to cultural detail and power dynamics, and my colleagues and I walked away saying there was something here for everyone to learn.”

- Rev. Dr. Paula Harris, Co-Author
“Being White; Finding our Place in a Multi-ethnic World.”

“I wanted to take a moment to thank you for your presentation at Marian University. Although racism is a difficult topic to explore, you helped us start the conversation, to hear others and to examine and challenge our beliefs all in a very safe, caring and respectful way.”

- Kerry Strupp
Marian University, Interim Director of Working Families Grant Program

“The material was spot on, the timeliness in our own messed up political landscape necessary. My only regret was that we had a mere two days to devote to our time with both of you. It should have been a week.

- Greg Kaufmann,
Assistant to the Bishop, Northwest
Synod of Wisconsin, ELCA
